Trivia: The Denver U.S Mint is the nation's second largest storehouse of gold bullion. The 1904 structure strongly resembles the Palazzo Riccardi in Florence. More than one million bricks, 60,000 cubic feet of granite, and 1,000 tons of steel were used in its four-and-one-half-foot thick walls. The Denver Mint is the single largest producer of coins in the world.

The Denver Mint and Philadelphia Mint are the only U.S Mints that offer tours.

Things to do in Denver

Denver is a vibrant city with 300 days of sunshine, brilliant blue skies and breathtaking mountain scenery.

Founded in 1858 as a gold mining camp, Denver is located at the base of the majestic Rocky Mountains, 5280 feet above sea level-exactly one mile high.

Today, Colorado's sophisticated capital city is a thriving, cultural metropolis with a growing reputation for fine dining, museums, galleries, theatre and professional sports.

The Heart of Downtown is the 16th Street Mall, a mile-long pedestrian promenade lined with 200 trees, 50,000 flowers. Designed by famed architect I.M. Pei, the Mall features a pattern in colored granite that resembles the design on a diamondback rattlesnake when viewed from above. Free Hybrid buses leave either end of the mall as often as every 90 seconds, stopping at every corner.

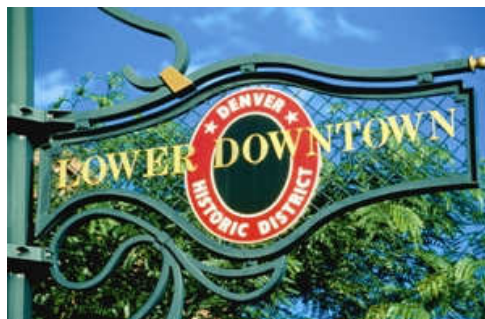

The Warwick Hotel is roughly a five minute walk to the 16th Street Mall and easy access to the FREE Mall Shuttle Ride. This provides easy access to outdoor cafes and inviting shops as well as dozens of restaurants; from fast food/casual dining to gourmet dining and enough nightlife for the most accomplished tourist.

Easily Accessible from 16th Street Mall:

- Writer Square. This pleasant plaza named after a local Denver family is lined with flower baskets and outdoor sculptures, and offers quiet cafes and shops.

- Larimer Square. Downtown Denver's trendiest block is also one of its most historic. Beautiful Victorian brick-and-stone buildings now house chic eateries, one-of-a-kind galleries and clothing boutiques, nightspots, a comedy club and some of Denver's top restaurants.

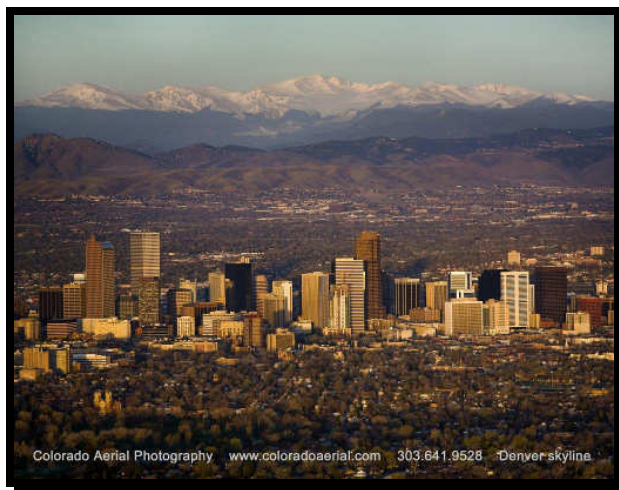

- LoDo. Short for Lower Downtown, is Denver's hip historic district where turn-of-the-century red brick buildings have been transformed into 90 brew pubs, sports bars and restaurants. The adjacent Riverfront area offers beautiful parks and paths along the South Platte River. An assortment of shops and restaurants can be found on both sides of the river.

- Denver Pavilions. Two square blocks and three levels of shopping, dining and entertainment- including a 15 screen movie theater.

- Denver Performing Arts Complex. The second – largest performing arts complex in the nation offers 10 venues seating more than 10,000 people for Tony® Award-winning theatre, opera, symphony and ballet. Ninety-minute backstage tours are available, visiting everything from the dressing rooms to costume and scenery shops. The fall schedule is not available as of this printing. Please check www.dcpa.org for available shows during your stay.

Additional Information:

- Please see www.denver.org/
- Time Zone: Mountain Standard Time Zone
- The temperature range in mid September:
 - Low: 44° F High: 79° F 1.16 in. rain

How's the weather? Thanks to Denver's 300 days of blue skies and sunshine each year, the forecast is almost always a good one. The arid conditions bring only 8 to 15 inches of annual precipitation and locals wake up to more than 300 days of sunshine a year. That's more annual hours of sun than Miami and San Diego.

Altitude: Don't let anything you hear about the mile-high altitude scare you. The air is just thinner and dryer. In fact, many people with respiratory problems, including our Mayor, move to Denver for the benefits of the dry air. Just follow these simple tips and you will very likely not even notice the difference.

High Altitude Tips:

Denver really is exactly one mile high. In fact, there is a step on the State Capitol Building that is exactly 5,280 feet above sea level - one mile high. Which step? Well, the 11th step is carved in stone as a mile high, but in 1969, it was found that the actual spot was 4 steps higher. In 2002, it was discovered that Denver is 3 feet higher than previously thought. So take your pick of steps - but one of them is assuredly one mile high. In Denver's rarified air, golf balls go ten percent farther... and so do cocktails. Alcoholic drinks pack more of a wallop than at sea level. The sun feels warmer, because you're closer to it, but your coffee is cooler, because water boils at 202 degrees. Denver is also extremely dry, and with less water vapor in the air at this altitude, the sky really is bluer in Colorado. But there's 25 percent less protection from the sun, so sunscreen is a must.

DRINK WATER: Both before your trip to Denver, and while you are here. Drinking plenty of water is the number one way to help your body adjust easily to our higher altitude. The low humidity in Colorado keeps the air dry, like the desert, so you need twice as much water here as you would drink at home. It is also recommended that you go easy on the alcohol in the mountains and in Denver, as its effects will feel stronger here. The effects of exercise are more intense here as well. If you normally run 10 miles a day at home, you might try 6 miles in Denver.

Weather: Two days before your trip to Denver, check into www.weather.com for the latest on weather and temperature. Please use this information to pack appropriately. Denver is closer to the sun so it can feel much warmer than the actual temperature during the daytime, but then become very chilly after sundown, particularly in the spring and fall. It is best to layer your clothing.
